1. The Tbilisi Stanok Machine Tool Factory (Tbilisski Stankostroitelny Zavod "Stanok"), a small factory at Tbilisi which began work during the war, produces bolt-cutting and screw-cutting machines. In 1947 and 1948, Model 9101 bolt-cutting machines and Model 5933 screw-cutting machines were produced; special machines used on Model 25933 also were manufactured. Model 5933 screw-cutting machines are produced to order for the Ministry of Automobile and Tractor Industry of the USSR and the Ministry of Transport Machinery of the USSR (for locomotive and rail car works).
2. The output in 1947 totaled 132 machine tools. From January to October 1948 it totaled 125 machine tools.
3. In October 1948, the personnel numbered about 170. The director is Bokeriya. The chief engineer is Kakobadze.
4. A project for the expansion of the factory (increase of workers, erection of new buildings, supply of new equipment) is at present under consideration by the Ministry of Machine Tool Construction of the USSR. The factory is controlled by this ministry through the Chief Directorate of Machine Tool Construction.
